INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY OBJECTIVES

Upon completion of the Information Technology program, the graduates shall:

- possess knowledge and skills that prepare them to be computing professionals who are well versed on application installation, operation, development, maintenance and administration of IT systems;
- be able to apply/deploy/configure Information Systems, Software Methods and Technologies and Systems Infrastructure;
- be proficient in designing and developing computing solutions;
- manifest interpersonal, communications and leadership skills through significant curricular, co-curricular and extra-curricular activities; and
- value social-consciousness through active participation in community-based endeavors and professional organizations.